

Intra-College Debate on "Sir Syed Ahmed Khan"

Organized by: The Departments of History, Urdu and Islamic History & Culture in Collaboration with IQAC

Venue: Virtual room

Date: 11th May, 2022

A documentary movie on Sir Syed Ahmed Khan shown to the students and after that the debate and discussion on "Sir Syed Ahmed Khan" was started. This was held with the aim of exploring how Sir Syed Ahmed Khan fought against traditions, superstitions, ignorance, and irrationalities; he advocated for the need for an open mind. He worked for a society and began publishing the journal Tehzeeb-ul-Akhlaq (Social Reformer) on 24 December 1870 to spread awareness and knowledge on modern subjects and promote reforms in Muslim society. Sir Syed worked to promote reinterpretation of Muslim ideology in order to reconcile tradition with Western education. The event brought together esteemed teachers to deliver the lecture on Syed Ahmed Khan works and then divided two parts of each student for the discussion on debate. This debate was organized because Sir Syed Ahmed Khan criticized the influence of traditional dogma and religious orthodoxy, which had made most Indian Muslim suspicious of British influences.

The Debate and discussion main aim was to continue exploring how Sir Syed Ahmed Khan worked and why he was criticized. Sir Syed Ahmed Khan Aligarh movement and his desire to open institutions for Western education was opposed by the orthodox Indian Muslim. Imdad Ali, deputy collector of Kanpur condemned the foundation of Anglo- Oriental college. This institution was crucial in the development of modern education for the Muslim community in British India. Hello was not a leader of a Muslim league. Throughout history, Akbar Illhabadi was a bitter critic and a very nearly implacable enemy of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan reformist ideas. This entire procedure results in consciousness for all of the students.

Overall impact:

The debate and discussion served as a crucial platform to know Sir Syed Ahmed Khan. The Urdu, History and Islamic History students helped to know his educational model and progressive thinking about society. Also students know the important role of Sir Syed Ahmed Khan in British Indian society. After this debate students understand the establishment of anglo Oriental college in Aligarh, it's helpful for further research
